To whom it may concern:

Over the last twelve months Wanganui Welldrillers have installed three irrigation wells on our dairy farm. Although our centre pivot irrigators are yet to be completed, I am confident these wells will perform to our satisfaction as we have completed the test pumping required for our resource consent application.

I have been impressed with their professionalism on the job and their predictions for flow rates based on the test bores were close to the actuals. My decision to choose them to install our wells was based on their knowledge of our local soil strata, and my preference to see the money we spend stay in the local economy. I am happy with my choice.
